Emotion Coaching Workshops for Parents

Emotion Coaching is an approach to support parents to help their children when they feel distressed. It works for the little things and the big things. It is a naturalistic parenting approach which has been observed in research to have a beneficial impact on children's emotional and physical health, their capacity for empathy and their social relationships.

We offer the programme in two different styles:

A virtual group programme over 6 weeks in the evening

A one-day group programme face to face

Both are then followed with 3 x 1:1 coaching sessions.

For more information about these programmes please email
